The property

Oakwood Farm is a characterful late 17th to early 18th-century detached family home offering around 6,000 sq. ft. of flexible accommodation, including a ground floor self-contained annexe. It was originally part of the Bentons Estate and sits within 9 acres complete with established formal gardens. The entrance hall opens into to a reception hall with rich oak flooring, corresponding oak-framed windows, and a cloakroom. From here, the formal dining room enjoys French doors to the south-facing part walled garden. Further is a dual-aspect sitting room, and a lofty study with sash windows, both with fireplaces, fitted furniture and log-burning stoves. The high-ceilinged kitchen/breakfast room with its exposed timbers features a range of handmade wooden cabinetry, an Aga and access to the pretty courtyard. From here are steps to the wine cellar, whilst a rear lobby leads to a well-appointed utility with butler sink and WC. From the reception the space flows into a library with a wealth of bespoke fitted cabinetry and shelving, onto the impressive vaulted drawing room with brick fireplace and French doors to the garden. The library opens to the well-presented annexe, with a living and dining space, bathroom, kitchenette and bedroom, woodburning stove and two sets of French doors to the garden.

The first floor offers a nursery/dressing room with extensive built-in storage, a family bathroom, three pleasing bedrooms, two of which enjoy their own en suite bathrooms. Three further well-proportioned bedrooms reside on the second floor, with a pair of Jack and Jill bathrooms and a peaceful reading area.
