The Property

Kirk Lea is an appealing property featuring honey-toned stone elevations and picture windows. Beautiful wood flooring in the spacious entrance hall offers modern practicality with double doors that open into the generously proportioned reception room with a partition wall providing subtle zoning. This sociable space includes a formal dining area featuring glazed sliding doors for seamless outdoor access, along with open apertures connecting to the adjoining living room. Providing a warming ambience, this entertaining area is centred around an attractive stone fireplace and benefits from a triple aspect with floor to ceiling windows.

You will find that sleek design, and modern styling is offered in the adjacent kitchen, which is fitted with contemporary cabinetry, integrated appliances and features an island unit with breakfast bar seating. The adjoining semi open plan breakfast room offers a casual and cosy setting that is ideal for informal dining, with a further useful utility room providing further space for storage and appliances. Leading off the breakfast room a door gives access to a private home office with a dual aspect.

Apportioned to the west-wing of the property are four generous double bedrooms, three of which have fitted wardrobes and each offering versatility for the provision of a separate sitting room or snug if desired. The principal room benefits from fitted wardrobe storage and access to a modern en suite with underfloor heating and walk-in shower. A stylishly appointed family bathroom also with underfloor heating features a contemporary tub and large shower cubicle, with an additional cloakroom facility adjacent that completes the accommodation.

Outside

A low-level stone wall forms the front boundary to the grass verge, with pillars and a timber five-bar gate marking the access onto a driveway of pavers which provides parking for multiple vehicles and leads to the detached double garage. Manicured hedging and clipped evergreen shrubs create definition and interest at the perimeters of the plot and areas of lawn to front and rear are well-maintained. Paved pathways follow the edge of the property to both sides offering routes to the front entrance and the garden at the rear, with areas of decorative gravel creating low-maintenance design features. The paving extends to connect with a raised patio with summer house that is perfect for al fresco dining and relaxation in this outdoor sanctuary, which enjoys unoverlooked privacy and open countryside beyond the far margin.

Beyond the wooden fencing of the rear garden is an approx. 2.5 acre field which is owned by a Limited company in which the owner of Kirk Lea has as interest along with four neighbours, affording protection against any change of use or development.
