

Onslow Square, London

Strutt & Parker

Land and property. Since 1885.

Ultra-modern apartment on Onslow Square with excellent transport links

A beautiful Art Deco building, Malvern Court benefits from a lift and porter as well as outdoor space, storage and parking. This three-bedroom lateral apartment occupies a first-floor position, spanning almost 1,500 sq ft with a versatile layout that provides up to three good-size bedrooms, two bathrooms and extensive living space. Internally the apartment is attractively appointed in a contemporary style, with sleek, whitewashed design accented by striking wall coverings. Tall sash windows and clever use of mirrored finishes reflect natural light around the apartment, making it feel bright and fresh.

At the heart of the apartment, a long corridor runs the length of the space. Open plan to this is the reception room, a generous space with a modern fireplace and large window. On the opposite side, the kitchen is appointed in a sleek, timeless design and incorporates ample storage within wall and base cabinetry and a kitchen island, as well as a variety of integrated appliances.

The principal bedroom is an excellent size, cleverly hiding within the fitted cabinetry a dressing room and luxuriously appointed en suite with bath, separate walk-in glazed shower and twin vanity unit. The two additional bedrooms also benefit from built-in storage and share a sleek shower room and a separate cloakroom. Either could be alternatively used as a formal dining room, study or additional reception space.

Malvern Court has long been desired for its setting and inviting appearance: handsome red brick elevations sit behind manicured green hedging, trees and elegant wrought iron railings. The block is set in privileged position in the heart of South Kensington; residents benefit from use of two communal garden squares including private tennis courts. The apartment also has parking and a storage room in the basement.
