The property

With its attractive architecture featuring stone and tile-hung elevations, distinctive chimney and decorative spire, Harpscot is an appealing property which offers historic character combined with modern attributes. The house dates from 1812 with a more recent, beautiful and sympathetic extension added in 2014. The enchanting, arched entrance portal opens into a reception hall which features rustic terracotta floor tiling and an exposed stone wall and gives access into two of the four versatile-use reception areas. The family room benefits from the warming ambience of a wood-burning stove, with arched recesses to either side of the fireplace housing cabinetry and display shelving. There is a study with French doors linking to a south-facing terrace, at the moment it is a study but can make a fourth bedroom with an adjacent wet room and with the potential to be self-contained. A sitting room for relaxed downtime which offers a route into the light-filled conservatory where views and access to the garden can be enjoyed throughout the seasons. Steps rise up from the sitting room into the kitchen/breakfast room which has a red Aga stove at its heart and features Shaker-style cabinetry, granite worksurfaces, and a geometric peninsular which forms a stylish divide to the breakfast area.

On the first floor, the principal bedroom enjoys an elevated outlook to the adjoining landscape and has access to a smart en suite shower room. There are two further bedrooms on the upper level, both with fitted wardrobe storage, and a family bathroom with modern fittings, which complements the shower/cloakroom facility situated on the floor below.

Outside

The garden at Harpscot is beautifully landscaped and maintained providing a secluded outdoor sanctuary with the rear margin adjoining glorious open countryside. Paved terracing to both sides and the rear of the house, and with step level changes, create interest and offer opportunities for outdoor seating, dining and relaxation in various spots within the grounds. There are areas of lawn framed by attractively planted borders, clipped hedging and architectural shrubs and pathways which provide a journey through the garden. A driveway to the side of the plot provides parking and access to the detached double garage with a timber gate in fencing opening to a pathway leading across to the house which sits centrally within its plot. All set in 0.35 acre.
